

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFATORY NOTE.

This Legislative Manual and Official Register has been prepared and published as an official document of the Territory of New Mexico and is intended to supplement "The New Mexico Blue Book" issued in 1882 by the late Secretary, W. G. Ritch.

While many features of this Manual are entirely new, and others have been compiled and printed herein for the first time in New Mexico, there is much of the material which has been adapted or merely brought up to date, from "Ritch's Blue Book." It is, therefore, a pleasure to acknowledge this obligation to the work of Mr. Ritch, particularly in relation to those portions containing the Historical Sketch, the Official Register prior to 1882 and the Chronological Tables.

SECRETARY OF THE TERRITORY.

TERRITORY OF NEW MEXICO,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Santa Fe, Dec. 31, 1904. }

Hon. Miguel A. Otero, Governor of New Mexico, Santa Fe:

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith a biennial report upon the transactions in this department during the calendar years 1903 and 1904, together with some recommendations and suggestions for the consideration of the incoming legislative assembly. To this report there will be appended for separate publication an Official Register and Legislative Manual, which will embody as well the statistics in relation to corporations and election returns.

ELECTIONS.

The canvass of votes cast at the General Election for Delegate to the 59th Congress, Members of the 36th Legislative Assembly and County Officers, held on November 8th, 1904, has demonstrated very clearly that several important changes are necessary in the election laws. From the face of the returns it is made evident that no regular system obtains throughout the various counties in regard to the preparation and distribution of ballots, with the natural result that there may be placed in the field almost any number of tickets or combination of tickets, some of which are undoubtedly launched with intent to deceive voters. It would seem advisable to make some provision that would prevent the putting forth of any candidate for delegate to Congress except on a petition signed by at least 100 voters in each county. Carrying out this same idea, the running of independent candidates for legislative and county officers should require some preliminary feature, as filing with the proper authorities petitions signed by at least 50 voters in the legislative district and 50 voters in the county proper for officers of the county. In this connection the law should provide, of course, that the name of any candidate could appear upon but one ballot. In order that it may be possible for the Secretary to canvass the vote for members of the legislature in districts composed of more than one county, and have before him the proper information upon which to make this canvass, it is quite necessary that the council districts should be numbered consecutively from 1 to 12 and the house districts consecutively from 1 to 24, under which conditions there should be but one member running for each district, and the ballots and certified returns should indicate clearly the number and the district in which the several candidates run. To insure uniformity of procedure throughout the territory, and to guard against fraudulent tickets which deceive the voters, it is suggested that it would be well to provide for a regular election commission, which might consist of the Secretary of the Territory and two other persons, each of whom should be a recognized adherent of one of the two great political parties.

This commission should be in session at the Capital during a stated period of time before the election, and the law should require that the territorial and county conventions of the various political parties should forward to the commission a certified list of the nominees for the several offices. It would then be the duty of the commission to prepare a recognized official ballot for the different counties and see that these ballots were placed in the hands of the various county committees in plenty of time for the election. As none but the official ballots could be recognized and counted by the judges of election, it would be best to insure uniformity by a provision that all ballots be printed upon paper of a certain unusual color, and that each ballot bear upon its reverse side an official stamp and fac simile signature of the secretary of the commission. Further than this, it should be unlawful to place before the voter any ballot not headed by the regularly adopted emblem on a certificate to be filed in this office as now required by law.

It would be necessary, of course, to retain in its present form the provision of our law giving to any voter the right to erase or "paste" any name appearing upon the regular ballot.

Indirectly connected with this subject is the present statute in regard to the form of poll books which are to be used at the general elections. These poll books are extremely awkward in form and are arranged in such a manner that fully four-fifths of the elaborate tabular rulings are simply so much waste matter. The form of the book should be altered in such a way that the names of the voters may be run consecutively page after page until all have voted, after which one of the tabular sheets would be sufficient to accommodate the poll for the largest precincts.

CORPORATIONS.

Probably the most appropriate and timely legislation in regard to corporations enacted by our legislature during recent years, was the Act of 1903, which provided for the collection of fees for filing articles of incorporation upon a basis of ten cents for each $1,000 of capitalization. The several laws upon this subject which had been in effect prior to that time contained many disadvantages, not the least of which was the fact that very few persons who desired to incorporate could determine clearly just what amount it would be necessary to pay to the Territory. Under the present statute, on the other hand, the computation is simplicity itself, and as the same fee must be paid by every corporation organized for profit, the law also has the effect of doing away with all of the unjust classification formerly in force.

During the years 1901 and 1902, 386 charters were filed, authorizing an aggregate capitalization of $230,343,925, or an average of about $600,000 for each company. The filing fees in these years reached a total of $21,969.25, which was a very material increase over the amount collected for the two preceding years. In 1903 and 1904 there were filed 361 charters, under which the total authorized capitalization was $188,372,941, or about $580,000 for each company. For these two years, the filing fees reached a total of $22,728.00, which amount shows a material increase over the record for the two previous years.

Upon the whole, it appears that the amount of corporation business during the two years last past, was not materially affected by the severe drouths and floods of the last spring and fall.

There are one or two additions to the present law which it might be well to bring to the attention of the incoming legislature. There is at present no provision requiring persons who desire to dissolve or disincorporate an organization already in existence to file in this office any certificate showing that such disincorporation has been accomplished. As it is always of great importance that the secretary's office should be fully informed in regard to these matters, it would be well to have the present law amended by adding a requirement to the effect that such certificate of disincorporation be filed here instead of with the county recorder, as at present provided.

The amount of fees collected by the territory at the time of original organization is so small, and as a corporation is allowed to do business for the period of fifty years after organization without paying any annual license or franchise tax, it would appear to be but just that a company which proposes to renew its existence for the period of fifty years be required to pay the same fee upon the amount of its capitalization, as would be required if the organization were entirely new. Since the life of a great many of the corporations formed soon after the passage of our original corporation law is about to expire, it would be especially appropriate at this time to make provision in regard to the fees to be paid at the time the certificates are filed here for the renewal of the corporate existence.

In the last report from this department the following statement appeared:

"We are greatly in need of a law that will permit the consolidation of companies engaged in the same or similar lines of business, such an act being in force in the territory regarding railways, while in nearly all of the states such a law may be found covering business companies in general."

During the last two years these remarks have lost none of their force, and it appears to be nothing more than fair that corporations should have the same privileges in this respect that apply to individuals. Under the provisions of our law, one corporation is not permitted to become the owner of stock in another corporation, and while a prohibition of that sort is perfectly proper, it often happens that the interests of economical management could be greatly enhanced by a consolidation of two or more companies which are carrying on the same line of business. Under proper restrictions there need be no fear that consolidations of this sort would eliminate competition or become in any way a public menace.

As stated in my report for 1901 and 1902, the present legislation relating to foreign building and loan associations is such as to prevent the entrance of those associations into New Mexico. One of the greatest needs of the territory today is the introduction of foreign capital for the development of our natural resources and the up-building of permanent improvements, and it appears to be a short-sighted policy to retain upon our statutes legislation which is diametrically opposed to progress of this character.

Another matter which bears close affiliation to corporation business is a law providing for the protection of registered trade-names, trade-marks and labels. Such a law is in force in every state and territory in the Union, excepting the two Carolinas and New Mexico, and there appears to be no good reason why legislation covering this subject should not be enacted here.

NOTARIES PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONERS OF DEEDS.

During 1903 and 1904 commissions were issued to 468 Notaries Public in the various counties of the territory.

As mentioned in a former report there are many of these officials without the means to purchase a full set of our statutes, and so they remain in ignorance of their powers and duties, and the legal rate of fees. The latter feature is very imperfectly covered by several acts scattered through the various volumes of the printed laws, and it would be a very great convenience to all concerned if the entire legislation upon the subject could be revised in some concrete form, which might be published separately and furnished to each new appointee.

The law providing for the appointment of Commissioners of Deeds for New Mexico in other states and countries should be amended in such a way as to prescribe a fixed term of office, say for convenience, a period of four years.

The following commissioners are qualified at this writing:

MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

Under the provisions of an act of the last legislature there was prepared and printed a reprint of the Session Laws of 1899 and 1901, bound in one volume. The law requires that copies of this reprint are to be sold at cost price, which amounts to $2.00. Upon this basis a number of copies have been disposed of to attorneys and others who are sufficiently interested to pay for the book, but a great many of the territorial and county officials have need of the volume in order to make their files complete but have been unwilling or unable to pay for the same. As the number remaining on hand will probably be more than sufficient to supply all the demands until such time as there is a general revision of the laws, it might be well to make some provision for gratuitous distribution of such volumes as are necessary to meet the needs of the territorial and county officials, together with a few of the new departments at Washington, and public libraries which have not been supplied heretofore.

The Spanish archives, belonging to the territorial library, which were stored in the vault of this department during a number of years and to which attention was called in several former reports, were shipped to the Library of Congress at Washington, in accordance with orders of the Honorable Secretary of the Interior, early in 1903. It is understood that the Librarian of Congress is having these documents carefully sorted, translated, summarized and indexed by experts in his department, and that after this work shall have been completed he will furnish the Territorial Library with several copies of the printed volume, which will treat the subject fully from the view point of persons familiar with matters of this nature.

As the documents were practically unavailable in the form in which they were stored here, there can be no doubt but that the people of the territory are to be congratulated upon the fact that the archives have been transferred to the hands of persons who have both knowledge and means to investigate their contents and publish the results of such investigation in comprehensive and convenient form.

The business transacted by this Department has been increasing steadily during the past two years, partly as a result of the constant growth and development of the resources of New Mexico, and partly owing to the fact that new lines of investigation have been undertaken by the department itself in an effort to gather statistics and other information of character heretofore neglected or untried. It has been possible, however, to keep the current work fully up to date in other respects, and this result has been due to a great extent to the fact that provision was made by the last Legislature for the appointment of an assistant secretary.

At the present time the work is progressing as smoothly as could be desired, and it has been possible with a small addition to the clerical force to prepare for the use of the incoming legislature and the information of the general public and official register and legislative manual, which will contain in addition to the usual statistics relating to corporations and the last general election, a brief historical sketch of the territory and description of the method under which the territorial government operates together with chronological and other data of interest.

Very respectfully,

J. W. RAYNOLDS,
Secretary of New Mexico.

NEW MEXICO.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

(Adapted from Ritch's Blue Book.)

Traditions.—Much of the history of this portion of the United States for three quarters of a century prior to 1680 is dependent almost entirely upon tradition.

Of the traditions relating to New Mexico, the most interesting is the one concerning Montezuma, a written record of which is to be found in some of the pueblos. The story goes that Pecos pueblo was the birthplace of Montezuma; that after he had grown to man's estate he showed himself possessed of supernatural powers; that he at a certain time assembled a large number of his people and started from New Mexico on a journey south, Montezuma riding on the back of an eagle, and thus, riding in advance, was to his people as was the star to the wise men of the East. Wherever the eagle stopped at night there was planted an Indian pueblo. The sign of arrival at the site of the great city and future capital of the Aztec nation was to be the "eagle alighting upon a cactus bush and devouring a serpent." This event took place, so the legend goes, when the eagle arrived at the site of the present City of Mexico, then first made a city and capital. The legend has been made memorable by the action of the Republic of Mexico in adopting the alighting of the eagle as the design of the national seal, and the same design is stamped on Mexican coins. The founding of the City of Mexico is dated 1325.

The memory of this tradition is perpetuated in New Mexico by including the design as part of the coat of arms of this Territory, the seal of New Mexico being the eagle, as represented on the seal of Mexico, resting under the wing or shadowing care of the American eagle.

Spanish Explorations.—Cabeza de Vaca was the first explorer to make his way out of this portion of America, and the story of his expedition is remarkable. His tale of how he journeyed by water and by land, all the way from Florida; how hardships, misery, shipwreck and death attended the expedition of himself and three sole surviving companions, while making their trans-continental journey through a vast wilderness and an unknown land of wild and hostile Indians, makes interesting reading. From Vaca we also have the account of village Indians, among whom he tarried for a time, enjoying their hospitality. From his description of the people, and from the cross and other religious symbols found by subsequent explorers, it is believed that he journeyed through what is now known as New Mexico. Then we have an account of his arrival at San Miguel, on the Gulf of California, many thousand miles overland from whence he started, and his account of the thrilling adventures and the marvelous country through which he had journeyed for eight eventful years.

Immediately following Vaca's expedition comes that of Friar Niza, accompanied by Estevan, the negro companion of Vaca. The indiscretion of Estevan, at Zuni, resulted in his death, and precipitated the return of Niza, without practical results.

Coronado's memorable expedition followed in 1540 in a mad chase for gold, extending his travels, according to General Simpson's interpretation, from the Gulf of California, via Zuni and Pecos, as far as the southern central Nebraska of today. Among the facts learned by this expedition was the manner in which provident stores for future emergencies, amounting to two and three years' supply, were made by the Pueblo Indians. We also learn of their hospitality toward Coronado and his men, and how it was sometimes reciprocated by treachery. These explorers brought with them sheep, and this probably dates their introduction into New Mexico. This expedition, after about two years, returned disheartened without financial success and in disgrace.

The next expeditions of material importance were those of Espejo, coming by way of the Rio Grande Valley, forty years later. The first was prompted by humanity, and had especially for its object the rescue of several Franciscan friars, who had ascended the Rio Grande Valley, and had been deserted by their small escort. Espejo's arrival was too late, however, to make his errand of mercy available, as the priests had all been massacred by the Indians. He then visited the country west as far as Zuni and Moqui, and returned to Mexico. He subsequently made another expedition, covering nearly the same ground west, and made careful notes of observations. On his return, passing near the Placita Mountains, he attempted to visit Santa Fe, but was met by 40,000 Indians, as we are told, and driven back. He returned to Zacatecas, from whence he came, by way of the Pecos and Conche Rivers. The reports of Espejo were of much value to those who subsequently came to New Mexico.

First Settlement.—The first immigration to New Mexico that resulted in a permanent settlement by the Spaniards was under Onate, about 1597. This colony settled in Rio Arriba County, where the Rio Grande forms a junction with the Rio Chama, near the present town of Espanola. This settlement, according to John Gilmarthy Shea, author of the History of the Catholic Church in North America, was named by Onate "San Gabriel," and is now known as Chamita. The following year a settlement was made at Santa Fe. According to some authorities, it was named el Teguayo, being a Spanish adaptation of the word Tegua, the name of the Pueblo nation then quite numerous, and occupying Santa Fe and vicinity. From that time forward, there seems to have been a large Spanish population in the Territory, undergoing varying fortunes, however, on account of revolutions and failure of crops. In 1660, Shea says, the country was abandoned.

Pueblo Insurrection.—In 1680, on the other hand, the country seems to have been occupied, as we have very full documentary evidence of the Spaniards having been driven out of Santa Fe and the Territory by the Pueblo Indians. It was then that the churches and convents were burned, the San Miguel church in Santa Fe being one of those devastated. This church was rebuilt in 1710.

A stone inclosure, we are told, was erected in the plaza of Santa Fe, possibly near where the soldiers' monument now stands, into which the church vestments, the holy vessels and all the archives and documents belonging to the government, were cast and burned. Many of the Spanish population, including several priests, were overtaken and killed. The Indians sought to obliterate every trace that might remind them of the Spaniards; wives taken in marriage under the rites of the church were cast off; all Spanish customs were tabooed, mining shafts were filled up and smelters destroyed. The Indians thereafter remained masters of the country until 1691, when, under reverses, a compromise was effected, upon the Spaniards obligating themselves to abandon all right to work the mines.

The mines were looked upon by the Pueblos as the cause of all their woes and oppressions. The Indian had been forced to become a bearer of burdens. He had been made to carry upon his back, from deep shafts, up rude ladders, the ores quarried from the depths; he had been driven from his home and family to this humiliation and oppression, while his imperious task-masters remained, revelling in debauchery at the homes of those they had reduced to slavery. After the revolution, the Spaniards were forced to content themselves with occupations incident to cultivating the soil and stock raising. This compromise lasted unbroken for many years.

Following the Restoration of 1694.—The records of events following the Spanish restoration are to be found largely in the accounts of revolutions, Indian campaigns and depredations, and an occasional famine. The population in 1799, as officially stated, was 23,769 Spaniards, and 10,369 mission Indians.

The First of the Anglo-Saxon.—In 1804 the first merchandise was brought to New Mexico from east of the plains, having been sent from Kaskaskia, Illinois. Later Captain Zebulon Pike, U. S. A., while making explorations in 1806, unintentionally found himself and command on Mexican domain, and Governor Alencaster's soldiers brought him a prisoner to Santa Fe. After a few days incarceration in the "Palace," he was sent to Chihuahua, where he was released and sent home minus valuable papers.

The Mexican Republic.—In 1821 came Mexican independence, and in 1822 there was established in New Mexico a government under Francis Xavier Chavez, as political chief. The overland trade with the United States virtually dates from the same year. Events familiar to many who still live now transpired rapidly. A long line of names prominent in the history of the republic follow, some of them illustrious in the history of the Territory; thus the names of Chavez, Otero, Baca, Romero, Martinez, Abreu, Luna, Armijo, Sanchez, Valdez, Ortiz and others are well known to those familiar with the history of New Mexico. November 29th, 1835, becomes memorable by reason of being the date of the publication of the first newspaper west of St. Louis.

which was named "El Crepuscula" (The Dawn). In 1837 occurred the thrilling scenes of the revolution that resulted in the assassination of Governor Perez. In 1842 the Texas invasion was accomplished.

The American Occupation.—On August 18th, 1846, the United States soldiers, under General Stephen W. Kearney, occupied New Mexican territory. In addition to many others who took part in the affairs of that time were General Doniphan, Governor Vigil and Christopher (Kit) Carson.

The War of the Rebellion.—The Territory contributed of volunteers to the Union armies of 1861-65 about six thousand men. The line of service to which they were detailed was especially arduous, including long and frequent marches, scouting, waiting and watching in a hostile country, both against Confederate soldiers expected and Indians ever present; it was the kind of service that was neither calculated to inspire enthusiasm nor command glory. The troops of New Mexico made one of the most important contributions to the early history of the war, at the battle of "Apache Canon," March 28, 1862, with the Union forces under the command of Colonel Slough. The Confederate soldiers were commanded by General Sibley. The battle resulted in the Confederates being driven out of the Territory once for all, and back into Texas, whence they had started. Among those who gave distinguished service in the cause of the Union were Henry Connelly, the war governor, General James H. Carlton, commanding the department, General "Kit" Carson, Lieutenant-Colonel J. F. Chaves and Major Jose D. Sena.

Navajo and Apache Wars.—It is estimated that the Federal government spent more than $50,000,000 between 1849 and 1886, in the subjugation of the hostile Indians in New Mexico and Arizona. The Navajos were finally reduced to submission in 1868, and returned to their reservations in a state of complete subjection. Not until 1886 were the Apaches finally conquered; but the surrender of Chief Geronimo to General Nelson A. Miles in that year and the subsequent exile of all the Apaches to Ft. Marion, Florida, has been a salutary lesson to the Indians, and has undoubtedly removed for all time the scourge with which this territory had been inflicted since its earliest settlement.

The War with Spain.—In the Spanish war, New Mexico again demonstrated her loyalty to the nation and furnished more volunteers in proportion to population than any state in the Union. A large proportion of the 1st Volunteer Cavalry, better known as "Roosevelt's Rough Riders," was recruited from the citizens of the Territory, all of whom made enviable records in the campaign before Santiago de Cuba.

The Overland Trade.—From the capacity of a single train of prairie schooners, in 1825, to that giving employment to ten railroads, the increase in the overland trade has been truly marvelous. These railroads today represent in round numbers three thousand miles of track, all put in operation since the thirtieth day of November, 1879.

Modern Conditions.—Since the advent of railroads, development has been rapid throughout the Territory, and the transition from all that is associated with the "Wild West" to the improvements and mode of living prevalent in eastern sections of our country, has been almost complete. In the larger towns are to be found public schools, buildings, banks, stores, electric cars and every other feature essential to comfort in its modern sense; while the farmers and stock men in the country districts have adopted all the latest methods and appliances used by their eastern competitors.

With more capital available to develop her many natural resources, New Mexico will soon take her place as one of the important producers of this great American commonwealth.

DESCRIPTIVE.

Ancient Boundaries.—New Mexico, as known prior to the American occupation in 1846, and subsequent to the establishment of the Republic of Mexico, had for its northern boundary the Nepesta or Arkansas River; the treaty of January 12th, 1828, between the two republics, which treaty antedated the Republic of Texas, fixed the 100th degree of longitude as the eastern boundary; the state of New Biscay and afterwards, upon its organization, the state of Chihuahua, formed the southern boundary, and the Mogollon Mountains, northerly to the Moqui Pueblos and from thence northerly to the headwaters of the Rio Grande del Norte, constituted the western boundary.

Following the treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo and the Gadsden Purchase, the fixed boundaries were those of the New Mexico and Arizona of today, combined. The settled portions of the latter were, in January, 1860, formed into a county named Arizona, under the jurisdiction of New Mexico, with the county seat at Tubac. On the 29th of December, 1863, the county of Arizona was created a territory, with its present boundaries.

Modern Boundaries.—On March 2d, 1867, that portion of New Mexico north of the 37th parallel of latitude was attached to Colorado by act of Congress, leaving the New Mexico of today with the following boundaries: North by the 37th parallel; east by the 103d meridian; south by the 32d parallel, except a few square miles lying to the south of the 32d parallel in the southwest; and on the west by the 109th meridian. The Territory has an area of 122,469 square miles.

By geographical divisions it is bounded on the north by the state of Colorado, on the south by the state of Texas and the Republic of Mexico, and on the west by the Territory of Arizona.

GOVERNMENT.

Departments.—The powers of the government of New Mexico are distributed among three departments, the legislative, The executive, and the judicial.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The legislative power is vested in the governor, and a legislative assembly, consisting of a council and a house of representatives. The sessions of the legislature are held biennially, and commence on the third Monday in January, in each of the odd numbered years. The sessions are limited by Congress to sixty days. The members are elected at the general election in November of each even numbered year, for a term of two years.

Council.—The council consists of twelve members, one or more from each of the nine districts, into which the Territory is divided.

House.—The house consists of twenty-four members, one or more from each of the fifteen districts, into which the Territory is divided.

Executive.—The legislative power of the executive lies in his function of approving bills before they become law, and in his right of veto.

Congressional Supervision.—All laws passed by the legislature and the governor, are required to be submitted to Congress, and if disapproved by that body, become null and void.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Governor.—The executive power of the Territory is vested in a governor, appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, who holds office for four years and until his successor is appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the President. The governor is commander-in-chief of the territorial militia; he may grant pardons for offenses against the laws of the Territory and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States, until the decision of the President is made known; he appoints all territorial officials, by and with the advice and consent of the legislative council, and makes appointments to fill vacancies occurring in county offices between elections.

Secretary.—The secretary of the Territory is appointed by the President upon approval of the Senate and holds office for four years.

In the absence of the governor from the territory, or in case of his death, removal, resignation or other inability, the secretary performs the duties of the governor. The recording and preservation of the laws and acts of the executive and the transmission of the laws to the Federal authorities are among the chief duties of the secretary.

Other Executive Officers.—The other executive officers of the Territory are the treasurer, auditor, superintendent of the penitentiary, superintendent of public instruction, librarian, commissioner of public lands, adjutant-general, public printer, game warden, and traveling auditor and bank examiner. These officers are appointed by the governor upon confirmation of the territorial council.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

The judicial department is vested in a supreme court, district courts, probate courts and justices of the peace.

Supreme Court.—The supreme court consists of a chief justice and five associate justices, appointed by the President for a term of four years.

Solicitor General and Clerk.—The solicitor general and clerk of the supreme court are officers of the Judicial Department. The solicitor general is appointed by the governor, represents the Territory in all judicial proceedings, and acts as legal adviser of the territorial officials.

The clerk of the supreme court is appointed by the court and holds office for an indefinite period.

District Courts.—Each district court is presided over by one of the judges of the supreme court of the Territory. The Territory is at present divided into six judicial districts.

District Attorney and Clerk of District Court.—The district attorney and clerk of the district court are also officers under the Judicial Department. The district attorney is appointed by the governor for a term of two years.

The clerk is appointed by the judge of the district court for an indefinite period.

Probate Court.—There is a probate judge in each county, who holds office for two years.

Justice Court.—Justice court is held by a justice of the peace. One justice of the peace is elected every two years for each precinct.

SUB-DIVISIONS.

Counties.—There are twenty-five counties in the Territory, each county being a body corporate. The government of the county is carried on by a board of county commissioners, consisting of three members, who, with other county officers, are elected every two years by the voters of the county. The other county officers are the sheriff, probate court clerk, treasurer, assessor, recorder of deeds, superintendent of schools, county surveyor, constable, river commissioners and jailer.

Precincts.—The county commissioners have the power to organize precincts within the county, upon the petition of fifty citizens of the locality where the precinct is proposed to be erected.

Municipal Corporations.—Municipal corporations are of two classes, those with a population of 3,000 and upwards, which are called cities, and those with a population of from 1,500 to 3,000, which are known as incorporated towns. The corporate authority of cities is vested in a mayor and a board of aldermen; the corporate authority of a town is vested in a board consisting of a mayor, four trustees and a recorder, who must be qualified electors, residing within the limits of the corporation organized.

SYSTEM OF TAXATION.

In general, taxation arises from four sources:

First, levies made by the legislative assembly to defray general territorial expenses, such as the interest and principal of the public debt, maintenance of educational and charitable institutions, salaries of territorial officials and such other levies as are required by special acts of the legislature. The auditor of the Territory certifies annually to the board of county commissioners of each county the amount to be levied on taxable property to meet these various expenses.

Second, there is a county tax, the county commissioners being authorized to levy taxes annually for the current expenses of the year, not to exceed five mills on a dollar upon the assessed value of all taxable property.

Third, a municipal tax is levied annually by municipal corporations for city or town purposes, not exceeding ten mills on a dollar.

Fourth, the school tax, levied by the commissioners of each county for educational purposes. The law places the maximum for such a tax at three mills on a dollar.

The assessment of property to meet these various levies is made by the county assessor. Property, for the purposes of taxation, is classified as follows: (a) Real estate, which includes all land within the Territory, all mines, minerals and quarries, in and under the land, and all rights and privileges appertaining thereto, and improvements. (b) Improvements, which include buildings, fixtures and fences erected upon the land. (c) Personal property. (d) Credit, which includes every claim and demand for money, or other valuable thing, and every annuity or sums of money receivable at stated periods.

On or before the first Monday in March, annually, the assessor makes out an assessment book in which is listed all the property in the county subject to taxation, with the names of the persons to whom the property is assessed. Any person dissatisfied with the action of the assessor in respect to any assessment, may appeal to the county board of commissioners. This board in each county constitutes a board of equalization, for the revision, correction, and completion of assessment rolls. The regular time for meeting, provided by law, are the first Mondays of June and July, when the board hears the appeals and complaints of those dissatisfied with the assessment as made by the assessor, and decides the same as in their judgment is right. In case the party assessed is dissatisfied with the decision of the board of commissioners, he has a further right of appeal to the territorial board of equalization.

The territorial board of equalization consists of one taxpayer from each of the judicial districts and two at large, appointed by the governor. The board meets on the second Monday of January, each year, at the capitol, for the purpose of fixing the valuation upon all property belonging to railroads, telegraph, telephone and sleeping car companies, doing business in the Territory. The valuation of this class of property when finally determined and fixed by the board, is certified by the secretary thereof to the auditor of the Territory; the auditor in turn certifies the same to the board of county commissioners of the various counties in which any of the above mentioned class of property is located, and such assessments are binding upon all county officials throughout the Territory. The board also fixes and determines the minimum value of all other property throughout the Territory, and prepares a schedule of such valuations, which is filed with the auditor. The traveling auditor of the Territory assists the board in the compilation of this schedule, by gathering data relating to taxation in the various counties.

The territorial board of equalization meets annually on the second Monday of September, at the capitol, as a board of equalization and appeal only. The auditor of the Territory furnishes the board with the assessment roll of each county for inspection and examination. The board determines whether assessments have been made with reasonable uniformity by the different county assessors, and where it is satisfied that the assessments were not reasonably uniform, the board adjusts and equalizes such assessments by raising or lowering the valuation thereof. The board also hears all appeals from the assessments as approved by the board of county commissioners; it is vested with full power to either increase, diminish, exempt, or otherwise alter and correct any assessment or valuation so appealed from, except valuations fixed by law. The decision of the territorial board is final in all cases.

The duty of collecting the taxes levied, devolves upon the county collector, who is furnished by the clerk of the board of county commissioners with a tax list by the first day of August of each year. Every person subject to taxation, is required to pay one-half of the tax levied against him on or before the first day of December, and the other half on or before the first day of June following. Failure to pay on or before the days specified, is cause for distraint proceedings by the sheriff and sale of personal property. On the first day of January in each year, half of the unpaid taxes for the year last past, and on the first day of July in each year, the remaining half of the unpaid taxes for the year last past, become delinquent and draw interest at the rate of twenty-five per cent per annum.

On or before the first Monday in March of each year, the county collector is required to offer at public sale at the court house door of his county, all real estate on which taxes of any description for the preceding year or years shall remain due and unpaid and sell the same for and in payment of the total amount of taxes, interest, costs due and unpaid on such real estate. The collector is required to give four weeks' notice of the sale, by publishing notice of the same in some newspaper of the county. The collector conducts the sale at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in front of the court house door, the property going to the highest bidder.

Any time after the expiration of three years from the date of the sale, the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, on presentation of the certificate of sale to the collector, is entitled to a deed for the real estate remaining unredeemed. The deed vests in the purchaser all the right, title, interest and estate of the former owner in and to the land conveyed.

The real estate may be redeemed by the owner at any time before the execution of the deed to the purchaser, by payment to the collector of the proper county, to be by him held subject to the order of the purchaser of the amount for which the same was sold, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month, together with the amount of all taxes accruing on such real estate after the first sale, paid by the purchaser and endorsed on his certificate of purchase with interest on the same at the rate of three per cent per month.

The collector, upon application and payment of the proper amount, by the party entitled to redeem, issues to such party a certificate of redemption, describing the tract redeemed and giving the date of redemption, the amount paid and by whom redeemed. The person redeeming, presents his certificate of redemption to the probate clerk, who enters the redemption in the record, the record thereafter being prima facie evidence of the redemption of the lands therein described. The collector upon demand of any person entitled to redemption money in his hands, pays the same to such person upon his surrendering to him the certificate of sale of such parcel of real estate as was redeemed.

The following property is exempted from taxation: Property of the United States and of the Territory, counties, towns and other municipal corporations, when devoted entirely to public use and not held for pecuniary profit; all public libraries, the grounds, buildings, books, papers and apparatus of literary, scientific, benevolent, agricultural and religious institutions and societies, when the property of such institutions is devoted exclusively to the appropriate objects of such institutions, and not leased or rented or otherwise used with a view to pecuniary profit; mines and mining claims bearing gold, silver, and other precious metals, for a period of ten years from the location thereof; irrigation ditches, canals and flumes belonging to communities and used exclusively for irrigating lands, without any charge or compensation for the same or the water thereof, except the necessary work and charges to keep the same in repair; cemeteries not held and used for pecuniary profit; also all property of railroad companies formed under or doing business pursuant to the laws of the Territory, until the expiration of six years from and after the completion of their road or roads and branches of railroads.

SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Territorial Board of Education.—This consists of seven members, the governor, superintendent of public instruction, and five members to be appointed by the governor from the heads of the territorial educational institutions, the president of St. Michael's College of Santa Fe and the superintendent of schools in the four cities of the Territory, ranking highest in population at the time the appointment is to be made. The board apportions the territorial school fund to the various counties; prepares examinations for applicants for teachers' certificates, and selects the text books for public schools.

Chief Territorial Officer.—The superintendent of public instruction is appointed by the governor, by and with consent of the council, for a term of two years. He visits various counties in the interest of education; holds teachers' institutes; recommends the text books to be used in the common schools of the Territory, and keeps a record of the proceedings of the territorial board of education.

Chief County Officer.—A superintendent of schools for each county is elected at each general election and holds office for two years. He apportions the school fund appropriated by the territorial board of education among the several districts in the county, and has charge of the common school interests of the county.

School District.—Each county is divided into school districts, and each district is a body corporate with the usual powers and liabilities of such bodies.

School Directors.—Three directors for each district in the county are elected for a term of three years. They have general care and keeping of the school property of the district; provide for school sites, and pay teachers' wages and interest on school bonds.

City and Town Boards of Education.—At each annual city and town election, a board of education is elected, consisting of two members from each ward, one of whom is elected annually, and holds office for two years. This board organizes and maintains a system of graded schools; exercises control over school property, and levies a special tax for the support of the city and town schools.

School Age.—The school age is from five to twenty-one years. Children between the ages of seven and fourteen, who are not in attendance at some private school or not under physical disability, may be compelled by the school authorities to attend the public school for at least three months in each year.

Educational Institutions.—The school system of New Mexico includes the territorial institutions which are supported by general territorial funds. These are the University of New Mexico, New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, New Mexico Normal School, New Mexico Normal University, New Mexico

School of Mines, New Mexico Military Institute, and Institute for Deaf and Dumb. There are about 694 public schools in the Territory, supported by the regular school taxes, with an enrollment of 37,972 pupils; 64 sectarian schools, with an enrollment of 4,540 pupils; and 18 private schools, with an enrollment of 288 pupils. In addition, there are 25 Indian schools under direct Federal supervision, with a total enrollment of 1,933 pupils. The total value of the school property of these institutions amounts to $2,036,073.09.

38. COLORADO.—Enabling act passed, March 21, 1864. Constitution formed, August 12, 1864. Act to admit as a state passed Congress; vetoed by the President, May 15, 1866. Another act to admit passed Congress, January, 1867; vetoed by the President, January 28, 1867.

Enabling act passed, March 3, 1875. State Constitution formed, March 14, 1876. By proclamation of the President admitted as a state, August 1, 1876. Population at the time of admission, 135,000.

39. NORTH DAKOTA.—Settled by the French in 1780. Included in the Territory of Dakota in 1861. Separated from South Dakota in 1888. Admitted as a state, November 2, 1889. Population at the time of admission, 182,719.

40. SOUTH DAKOTA.—Settled by Americans in 1856. Was a part of the Louisiana purchase of 1803. Became a part of the Territory of Dakota in 1861. Admitted to the Union, November 2, 1889. Population at the time of admission, 328,808.

41. MONTANA.—Settled by Americans in 1809. Gold was discovered in 1861, when Montana was a part of Idaho. Became a separate territory in 1864. Admitted as a state, November 8, 1889. Population at the time of admission, 132,159.

42. WASHINGTON.—Acquired as a part of the Oregon country by treaty with England in 1846. Became a territory in 1853. Admitted as a state November 11, 1889. Population at the time of admission, 340,390.

43. IDAHO.—Formed a part of Oregon up to 1863, when it was organized as a territory, then including Montana and a part of Wyoming. Admitted to the Union, July 3, 1890. Population at the time of admission, 82,385.

44. WYOMING.—In large part was acquired with the Louisiana purchase in 1803, and the rest from Mexico, in 1848. Separated from Dakota Territory, 1868. Admitted to the Union, July 10, 1890. Population at the time of admission, 60,703.

45. UTAH.—Acquired by treaty from Mexico in 1848. The Mormons, driven from Illinois and Missouri, emigrated thither in large numbers in 1847, and subsequently. In 1850, it was organized as a territory. For years, serious difficulties existed between the territorial and the Federal governments, arising from the claims of the Mormon Church to supreme authority and the practice of polygamy. There is now a large and increasing non-Mormon or Gentile element. Admitted as a state, January 4 1896. Population at the time of admission, 276,746.

Territories.

1. NEW MEXICO.—Visited by Spaniards, 1537; subject to Spain, 1599; part of the Mexican Republic, 1821; ceded by Mexico to the United States, 1848; organized as a territory, 1850. Population, 195,310.

2. ARIZONA.—Visited by the Spaniards as early as 1526. That portion north of the Gila River was included in the Mexican cession of 1848; that south was in the Gadsden purchase from Mexico for $10,000,000, in 1853; a county of New Mexico until February 24, 1863, when it was made a separate territory, part of New Mexico being added to it. Population, 122,931.

3. ALASKA.—Discovered by Commander Bering for Russia in 1741; chartered and settled by the Russian-American Company in 1799; purchased from Russia by the United States in 1867 for $7,200,000; laws of Oregon made applicable in 1868; organized as the District of Alaska in 1884, the resident governor being appointed by the President; more thorough organization and a regular civil code enacted by Congress in 1900. Population 63,592.

4. OKLAHOMA.—Formed in 1890 from a part of the Indian Territory and the public land strip popularly known as "No Man's Land," lying north of Texas and west of the one hundredth meridian. Population, 308,331.

5. HAWAII.—Discovered by the Spaniards under Juan Gaetano, 1550; re-discovered by Captain Cook (English), 1778; an independent kingdom during most of the nineteenth century; Queen Liliuokalani deposed and a provisional government set up, awaiting annexation to the United States, January, 1893; annexation treaty sent to the United States Senate by President Harrison in February, but withdrawn by President Cleveland in March, 1893; Hawaiian Republic proclaimed, Sanford B. Dole, President, 1894; annexed to the United States, July 7 (annexation ceremonies held at Honolulu, August 12), 1898; constituted as a territory, 1900, the first delegate to Congress taking his seat in February, 1901. Population, 154,001.

6. INDIAN TERRITORY.—Part of the Louisiana Purchase, 1803; selected as a reservation for Indian tribes, 1832, and set apart as such by Congress, 1834. Population, 392,060.

Insular Dependencies.

PORTO RICO.—Fourth island in size of the West Indies; lies 450 miles east of Cuba and a little further south. Length, 100 miles; greatest breadth, 37 miles; area 3,760 miles. Discovered by Columbus, 1493; natives numbering 700,000, exterminated by Spaniards from Haiti beginning 1509; a Spanish colony till 1898, when ceded to the United States (in lieu of war indemnity in money); the first American civil governor inaugurated May 1, 1900. Capital, San Juan. Population in 1900, 953,243.

THE PHILIPPINES.—Islands are an archipelago extending from 4 degrees 45 minutes to 20 degrees, north latitude, and from 116 degrees to 127 degrees, east longitude, Manila, their metropolis, is rather more than 600 miles from China, 1,400 miles from Singapore, 1,800 miles from the nearest Australian port, and 7,000 miles from San Francisco. Islands number some 1,200, covering an area of about 115,000 square miles. Discovered by Magellan on the first circumnavigation of the globe, in 1521; Spanish conquest begun 1565; capital established at Manila, 1571; Dewey's great victory, annihilating the Spanish squadron under Montojo, in Manila Bay, May 1, 1898; surrender of Manila to Americans, August 13, 1898. The Spanish-American peace treaty ceded the Philippines to the United States, the latter paying $20,000,000 for the government property there; and later it has paid $100,000 for a few little islands in the extreme south, not included within the boundaries traced by the treaty. Population in 1900, 8,000,000.

GUAM.—The largest of the Ladrões archipelago, more than 1,500 miles east of Luzon; length, 30 miles; circumference, about 100 miles. Population, 10,000.

TUTUILA and MANUA.—One of the Samoan group, lying about 2,000 miles south of Honolulu, and in longitude 300 miles west of it. Area, about 80 square miles. Pago-Pago harbor was ceded to the United States in 1872. For ten years, from 1889, the Samoan group was an independent government under the protectorate of the United States, Great Britain and Germany. Disturbances concerning the native government having repeatedly occurred, the "Samoa question" was settled by a tripartite agreement, under which Germany was given control of the islands west of 171 degrees, and the United States control of those east of that line, comprising a few insignificant islands, besides Tutuila. The United States thus holds possessions in the Southern Hemisphere.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Donaciano Vigil, the Governor of the Territory, delivered a message to the legislative assembly of 1847, which message was the first official document of its character following the American occupation. The following quotation from the message describes the educational necessities of those early days: "There is at present but one public school in the Territory, that located in the city of Santa Fe, and supported by the funds of the county. All children are free to attend this school, but the funds of the county are insufficient to employ more than one teacher. * * * When there are no private schools or academies, it must be evident that the means of obtaining an education are exceedingly limited, and that the facilities should be greatly increased—that opportunities for learning should be given to all—to the poor as well as the rich, and if possible, to place a school in every town, village and neighborhood of the Territory. If our government here is to be republican—if it is to be based upon democratic principles, and if the will of the majority is one day to be the law of the land and the government of the people, it is most important for this will to be properly exercised. The people must be enlightened and instructed, * * * that every man should be able to read, to inform himself of passing events and of matters important to his country and his government. * * * The world at large is advancing and how can we profit by the advance unless the people are educated? It is true that the available means which could be applied at present to the cause of education are small, but for the promotion of so desirable an object they might be both increased and economized. All that the legislature can do for the cause of education for the people is most earnestly pressed upon them, and to this end I give my hearty approval and co-operation."

TERRITORIAL ORGANIZATION.

Convention of October 10th, 1848.

Under proclamation of Governor Vigil, the convention was organized by the election of Antonio Jose Martinez, of Taos County, as President; J. M. Giddings, as Clerk; Henry Henrie, as Interpreter; and Thomas White, as Doorkeeper.

Ex-Governor Sarracino, Governor Vigil, and Messrs. Quinlin and Perea of the Convention, were appointed a committee with instructions to draft a memorial to Congress on the subject of territorial organization. Accordingly, the committee reported the following, which was unanimously adopted and signed by the members of the convention, to-wit:

"Petition to Congress of the people of New Mexico by representatives in convention assembled:

"We, the people of New Mexico, respectfully petition Congress for the speedy organization of a territorial civil government.

"We respectfully petition Congress to establish a government purely civil in its character.

"We respectfully represent that the organic and statute law promulgated under military orders of September 22, 1846, with some alterations, would be acceptable.

"We desire that the following offices be filled by appointment of the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate: The Governor, Secretary of State, Judges, United States Attorney and United States Marshal.

"We desire to have all the usual rights of appeal from the courts of the territory to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"We respectfully, but firmly protest against the dismemberment of our territory in favor of Texas or from any cause.

"We do not desire to have domestic slavery within our borders; and until the time shall arrive for admission into the Union of States, we desire to be protected by Congress against the introduction of slaves into the territory.

"We desire a local legislature, such as is prescribed by the laws of New Mexico, September 22, 1846, subject to the usual veto of Congress.

"We desire that our interests be represented by a delegate admitted to a seat in Congress.

"Considering that New Mexico has a population of from 75,000 to 100,000, we believe our request to be reasonable, and we confidently rely upon Congress to provide New Mexico with laws as liberal as those enjoyed by any of the territories.

"Santa Fe, October 14, 1848."

Mr. Vigil, of Santa Fe, introduced the following, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That copies of said petition be forwarded to Honorables Thomas H. Benton and John M. Clayton with a request that they represent the interests of the territory in the United States Senate."

A move for state government was made early in 1850, and in June a legislative assembly, a member of Congress, and state officers were elected. The state officers qualified, and the legislature met on the first day of July, and entered upon the performance of the duties indicated. Pending a controversy between the new government thus attempted to be organized and the existing military government, news arrived of the long awaited and expected action of Congress, granting an organic act for the Territory of New Mexico. The action of Congress was in accord with the people's wishes, as represented in the Convention of October, 1848; the state movement at once lost its force and was dropped.

William S. Messervy, who had been elected a member of Congress under the state movement, was admitted to a seat in Congress, as a delegate, thus becoming the first delegate in Congress from the Territory of New Mexico.

Under the Organic Act, enacted by Congress September 9, 1850, James S. Calhoun was formally inaugurated governor of the Territory, on the third day of March, 1851. The Organic Act authorized sixty day sessions of the legislative assembly annually.

IN MEMORIAM.

WILLIAM G. RITCH was born in 1830, in Ulster County, New York, and died at Engle, New Mexico, September 14, 1904. Early in life he became interested in politics and served as county clerk of his native county and also as clerk of the board of supervisors.

In 1855, he removed to Hudson, Michigan, and later removed to Oskosh, Wisconsin, where he held the office of district clerk of Winnebago County for two terms. At the opening of the Civil War he enlisted in the Forty-sixth Wisconsin Infantry, and served as first lieutenant and adjutant of the regiment.

After the war was over, he was elected as a member of the state senate of Wisconsin and later a presidential elector, voting for Grant. He became proprietor and editor of the Winnebago County Press, but failing in health, was compelled to seek a change of climate, and came to New Mexico. President Grant appointed him as secretary of the Territory in 1873, which position he filled creditably for three consecutive terms. Upon the establishment of the New Mexico Historical Society, he was elected its first president and held that position for two terms. He was also president of the Bureau of Immigration, and of the Educational Association of New Mexico.

Mr. Ritch was a Mason, and a member of Montezuma Lodge No. 1, of Santa Fe, and also a member of Santa Fe Commandery of Knights Templar. He was also a prominent Odd Fellow, and at one time Grand Master for New Mexico of that order.

EDWARD LELAND BARTLETT was born in Oxford County, Maine, in 1847, and died at Santa Fe, October 19, 1904. He removed to Kansas with his father in 1857 but at the outbreak of the Civil War, he returned to Maine to attend school and fit himself for Bowdoin College, where his father and three uncles had graduated. He returned to Kansas in 1866, where he studied law in his father's office until 1869, when he attended the law department of the University of Michigan. He was admitted to the bar of Wyandotte County, Kansas, in 1871 and to the Supreme Court of that state in the same year.

In 1880, Mr. Bartlett removed to Santa Fe on account of his wife's health. He was adjutant-general of the Territory under Governors Sheldon and Ross. In 1889 he was appointed solicitor-general of the Territory, which position he held continuously to the time of his death, with the exception of three years. He was also ex-officio member of the United States Land Commission and of the Board of Public Lands of the Territory, and was a member of the Capitol Custodian Committee.

General Bartlett was one of the pioneer movers in the establishment of the New Mexico Bar Association, and in 1886 was elected its first secretary, which position he held to the time of his death. He was chairman of the Territorial Republican Central Committee for two consecutive terms, and chairman of the Santa Fe County Republican Committee several times. He served as a member of the Santa Fe City Council, as member of the Board of Education and was twice president of the Santa Fe Board of Trade.

He held high rank in Masonic circles, having attained the thirty-second degree in the Scottish Rite and was first grand commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of New Mexico. He served as Grand Chancellor of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias of the State of Kansas, as representative from Kansas and New Mexico to the Supreme Lodge of that order and also member of the Santa Fe Lodge of Odd Fellows.

J. FRANCISCO CHAVES was born in Los Padillas, Bernalillo County, New Mexico, June 27, 1833. In 1841 he entered the St. Louis University, where he attended a private academy. His education was finished with a two years' course in the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City, and in 1852, he returned to the Territory.

As a soldier Colonel Chaves served with distinction under "Kit" Carson through the Indian troubles. In 1861, he was commissioned major of the First New Mexico Infantry, by President Lincoln, and was afterwards promoted to be lieutenant-colonel of the regiment for gallant and meritorious services. In 1862, he took part in the battle of Valverde, and later on helped to establish Fort Wingate, of which post he held command for a long time. He was honorably mustered out of the service of the United States in 1865, and returning home, he took up the study of law, and was shortly thereafter admitted to the bar of New Mexico. During the latter '70's, he served as district attorney of the Second Judicial District.

Colonel Chaves was a Republican in politics and in 1858, while absent fighting the Navajo Indians was elected to the House of Representatives in the Territorial Legislative Assembly, taking his seat in 1860. In 1865, he was elected as the delegate to Congress and served in the Thirty-ninth and Fortieth Congresses. In 1875, he was elected a member of the Territorial Council from Valencia County and was re-elected to every succeeding legislature. He was appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction by Governor Otero in March, 1901; he was re-appointed in 1903 and was filling the position at the time of his death. Colonel Chaves was assassinated at seven o'clock on the evening of Saturday, the 26th of November, 1904, at Pinos Wells, Valencia County, New Mexico.
